Report 1: Overview

■ Preamble

As a liberal arts university, Lingnan is fully committed to quality teaching as well as excellence in research. Where some liberal arts colleges in the US focus only on teaching, some of the strongest stress as we do the complementary nature of teaching and research, which supplement and inform each other and jointly enhance the intellectual environment and analytical breadth that we provide to our students. The UGC's latest Research Assessment Exercise results released in March 2007 confirmed Lingnan's research strength, apart from our distinctiveness in teaching and learning. The University's overall research performance index rose sharply to 76.35% (from 38.85% in the last RAE in 1999), putting Lingnan in the fourth place among all UGC-funded institutions, just after the three 'research-intensive' universities. Of the nine cost centres for which Lingnan was assessed, the research indexes of seven, namely Accountancy, Business Studies, Economics, other Social Sciences (Politics & Sociology), Chinese, English, and Translation, surpassed their corresponding sector-wide averages. Lingnan ranked second in the Business Studies and Economics Panel, with an index of 84.14%. The results in the RAE confirmed Lingnan's research strengths across all our academic areas, namely arts, social sciences and business studies.

According to a review by three researchers D. QUER, E. CLAVER and L. RIENDA on the publication of business and management empirical research on China in leading international journals, Lingnan ranks high internationally. The review article, entitled "Business and Management in China: A Review of Empirical Research in Leading International Journals", was published in the latest issue of Asia Pacific Journal of Management (2007, 24: 359-368). After reviewing the objectives and methodologies of 2,847 papers published in 12 leading and high-impact international journals between 2000 and 2005, 180 papers were found to be fulfilling the criteria established by the aforesaid three international researchers. The findings showed that researchers from Lingnan fared very well as compared to other leading universities world-wide despite its small size. Lingnan was ranked fifth in terms of the number of appearances with a "total appearances" value of 13 papers ("Adjusted appearances" were 5.81, which take into account joint authorships. For example, a paper with two authors is calculated as  $\frac{1}{2}$  paper.) Three Hong Kong institutions including Lingnan emerged as the top five institutions while other four UGC-funded institutions also did well and were ranked among the top ten institutions world-wide. If size of institutions is taken into consideration, Lingnan would have performed even better.

As mentioned in our previous annual reports, according to the survey's results published by the Hong Kong Economic Journal Monthly (HKEJM) in its October 2003 issue, Lingnan ranked first among the eight UGC institutions for the quality of our teaching, and fourth overall after CUHK, HKU and HKUST. Notwithstanding its short history, our Department of Economics, as reported in the January 2005 issue of HKEJM, came third in a survey of the academic performance of the economics departments of seven Hong Kong universities, in an evaluation based on the number of articles per capita published by the universities' academic staff in quality international economics journals as well as the number of Competitive Earmarked Research Grants awarded by the Research Grants Council per full-time academic staff member. Similarly, in the Philosophy Lists Evaluative Survey of Graduate Philosophy Departments (<http://www.philosophylists.info/GraduateDepartments.html>; the lists ranks 711 philosophy departments world wide and leaves 243 departments unranked), Lingnan's Philosophy Department was ranked #157, while the HKU department was ranked #242 and the CUHK Department #478 (<http://www.philosophylists.info/GraduateDepartmentsbyCountry.html>). Such ranking of course will always have their limitations, but the Philosophy Lists have a set of fairly well defined criteria that enable one to see what the rankings are based on.

The above brief survey of various comparative assessment results demonstrate convincingly that the University is staffed by well-qualified academics, and enjoys a growing reputation both at home and internationally. Articles written by our staff have appeared in premier journals, and books have often been published by prestigious academic presses internationally. It is no exaggeration to say that research outputs and scholarly activities of our academic staff in the past few years have successfully put Lingnan University on the global academic map.

■ Institutional Policy on Research

Lingnan University aspires to be an internationally-recognized liberal arts university characterized by excellence in teaching, competence in research and a commitment to scholarship. Striking an appropriate balance between teaching and research is central to the University's approach to liberal arts education. While teaching is the primary mission of the University, research is seen as a vital element of scholarly activity which supports and enriches teaching.

The University's research policy is designed to optimize the use of research funds through quality enhancement, focused development and collaborative endeavour. Quality enhancement is achieved through faculty appointment and continuing improvement of its existing staff profile. Focused development is achieved as a result of identification of areas of excellence and the recruitment of faculty to build up strength in these areas. Collaborative endeavour is fostered by establishing research centres that provide both research support and coordination.

■ Quality Enhancement

Lingnan has outstanding staff members who are well-known scholars in their respective fields. The HKEJM (May 2007 Issue) has done a comparison of the ratio of faculty members with PhD degrees for 2005-06. Lingnan ranked the second highest among the local tertiary institutions. The percentage of faculty (at Assistant Professor rank or above) with PhD degrees rose from 36% in 1995 to 98% in 2007.

To ensure that faculty members will be given adequate opportunities to engage in research and development activities as well as a concentrated period for writing, a study leave scheme that awards a maximum time-off period from 6-12 months has been put in place. This will allow academic staff, through re-arrangements of teaching schedule and utilization of the summer vacation, to be released from teaching and administrative duties to concentrate on research/study/writing full time. Five academic members from three departments were released from teaching in 2007-08, each for a six-month period.

In addition to their regular participation in academic seminars organized by local tertiary institutions, staff are administratively encouraged and financially supported by the University to attend scholarly activities overseas to keep abreast of the latest developments in their respective fields of expertise. During the year, a sum of HK$1.15 million was committed to conferences and other staff development activities, and a total of 102 academic papers were presented at international conferences, through which staff were (and will continue to be) able to share the results of their research with local or overseas specialists, and to receive the feedback required before making their research more generally available in a published form.

■ Focused Development

Lingnan is fully aware of the need to focus its research efforts on its areas of strength. The synergy between teaching and research is particularly relevant to Lingnan, which is committed to maintaining a balance between providing an excellent undergraduate education based on up-to-date knowledge, and meeting the standards of faculty research output characteristic of the best liberal arts institutions.

After a stock-taking and review process, nine research areas have been identified for focused support. It is essential that we build on the strengths of the existing research areas, while at the same time exploring some emerging areas for development. These include seven established ones (Aesthetics & the Arts, Cultural Research & Development, Modern Literature in Chinese, Conflict Management in Chinese Societies, Taxation, Public Policy & Governance, and Social Gerontology) and two developing areas (Hong Kong Studies Through History and Financial Markets & Economic Performance). All these research areas are in line with our liberal arts mission, and are selected based on existing staff strength, proven track record and their connection to the undergraduate teaching. A brief account of each of these areas is given in the Appendix on pages 6-10.

■ Collaborative Endeavour

While at present inter-institutional collaboration exists mainly at the individual level, a system has been set up by Programme-based Research Institutes/Centres to channel resources into special areas of research and to develop important links with local, regional and overseas institutions for academic exchanges, conferences and other collaborative activities. Research clusters have been set up within each Institute/Centre to encourage participation by as many faculty members as possible. The International Joint-Research Programme has been running successfully, through which distinguished scholars from outside Hong Kong are invited to team up with research fellows at various institutes/centres to work on topics of mutual interest. Subsistence allowances had been provided for these partners to make a short trip to Hong Kong to enhance collaboration.

In addition, the University has set aside some money every year to finance two-way academic-exchange activities between Lingnan and institutions of higher learning in the PRC and the less developed economies of Asia. In 2007-08, a total of 8 incoming and 1 outgoing visits were supported by this scheme. Visiting institutions included Shandong Economic University, Nankai University, Donghua University, Sun Yat-sen University, Southwest University of Finance & Economics, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, among others.

■ Organization of Research Funding

The Research and Postgraduate Studies Committee (RPSC), a committee under the Senate, is charged with the formulation of policies for the promotion, conduct, supervision and funding of research in the University. It decides on all internal funding allocations and monitors progress of research projects on various grants. Research Panels at the Programme level undertake initial assessment of applications for research grants and make funding recommendations to the RPSC. The Office of Research and Staff Development provides administrative assistance to the Committee in the management of allocated grants to ensure that all funding and budgetary procedures are properly followed.

At Lingnan, we adopt a very careful and rigorous internal peer review process of applications for internal research grants. Each application is evaluated on the basis of its academic merit, feasibility within the indicated time frame, budgetary appropriateness, and the track record of the investigator(s).

■ Usage of Direct Allocation Grant

The RPSC allocated a total of HK$2.72 million to support 50 research projects by our academic staff during the 2007/08 academic year. The titles and grants for those projects funded from the University's Block Grant and the RGC's Direct Allocation Grant are set out in Reports 2A and 2B respectively. Projects supported from private sources are listed in Report 2C.

■ Research Postgraduate Programmes

In recognition of Lingnan's achievement in providing quality research postgraduate education, the UGC allocated an additional 25 marginally-funded MPhil places to Lingnan in 2005-08, on top of the 17 fte of fully-funded places. While the University welcomes such a significant increase in the number of research postgraduate student places from 17 fte to 42 fte, the University is convinced that it is ready to embark on further expansion of its research postgraduate student population.

As mentioned in earlier section, Lingnan has outstanding staff members who are well-known scholars in their respective fields. With an establishment of 128 academic staff members at Assistant Professor rank or above in 2007-08 against the small number of 42 funded research postgraduate student places, our staff expertise is seriously under-utilised. Consequently, many of our well-qualified staff members have been deprived of the opportunity of supervising research postgraduates. On the other hand, many students who wished to learn from these experienced scholars were turned away in the past. This means an under-utilisation of staff expertise, as well as disappointment to applicants who were attracted by the specialism of our reputable staff.

We truly believe that the University has good reasons for a significant increase in its research student number. Many of our staff members are active researchers who are eager to nurture students in their fields of expertise. With expansion in our research postgraduate student number to a level where a critical mass can be formed, the University will be able to make further contribution in both teaching and research.

■ Concluding Remarks

We have completed 12 great years as the only liberal arts university in Hong Kong. We have continued to play a distinctive and useful role among higher learning institutions in Hong Kong, and provide a healthy diversity in Hong Kong's higher education sector. Lingnan will continue to pride itself as being a liberal arts university putting emphasis on both research and teaching.

We believe that an adequately funded research base is essential to our institutional balance and well-being, and is beneficial to our teaching endeavours and liberal arts curriculum. As external funding for 'non-laboratory' research in the areas of Humanities, Social Sciences and Business (in which we are active) is extremely limited in terms of the schemes and total funds available, we need the UGC/RGC to continue to increase research support in these areas to enable us to build up our research strength and infrastructure.

Appendix: Nine Focused Research Areas

Achievements of Seven Focused Research Areas

1. Aesthetics and the Arts

Research into topics related to both popular and elite art (including painting, literature, drama, cinema, photography, and music) is central to a modern liberal arts education. Research and teaching in this area promotes the central outcomes of a whole-person philosophy of education that emphasises the ability to engage in responsible thinking and judgement under complex and changing circumstances. In the context of Hong Kong's tertiary institutions, Lingnan's profile in the area of studies in the arts and aesthetics is at once strong and distinctive, and involves contributions arising from a number of distinct departments. Lingnan's strength in this area derives not from concentration on any single thematic focus or topic, but from the high degree of international recognition of leading Lingnan scholars publishing in this area, many of whom are leaders in their respective specialisations and consistently publish articles and books in top-rank journals and university presses. The exceptional international recognition and impact of Lingnan researchers working in this area continues to enhance the local and global visibility of this unique liberal arts institution in Hong Kong.

2. Cultural Research and Development

Culture today is a business of global importance, a site of social hope, and a focus for policymakers worldwide. It is a major force of socio-economic changes under the "knowledge economy". As applied cultural studies, projects in Cultural Research and Development take unique Hong Kong methods, problems and solutions to a global marketplace of cultural ideas. Cultural research provides creative industries and cultural education with new dynamic contents; cultural policy allows government to foster cultural and community development, and education is now the foundation of social growth. These call for strategic cross-disciplinary research on local cultural transformations driven by global changes, and Cultural R&D is the consolidated answer to such emergent currents. Lingnan's Cultural Studies Department and Kwan Fong Cultural Research and Development Programme have gained international reputation, while successfully reaching out to the community, school and cultural sectors. We make cultural research available as a resource for secondary and post-secondary education. The pilot School Integrated Humanities/Liberal Studies project prepares teachers to handle the challenging culture-based curriculum. With teaching programmes at different levels, we attract overseas linkage grants, international MOUs, local CERG grants and government commissions. Development highlights include work with schools, cultural professionals, and the China-based "Peace Women Across the Globe" project.

3. Modern Literature in Chinese

The research on modern literature in Chinese at Lingnan expands beyond a narrow concept of Chinese literature, and includes as its focus a richer body of literature written in Chinese produced from different parts of the world. Also, the comparative approach helps to link the study of literature to other fields of knowledge and various forms of media. It is a focus area allocated additional research postgraduate places. While the Chinese Department has a balanced curriculum in classical and modern literature, it is especially strong in the field of modern literature. The Department is privileged with a number of established and practicing writers. Creative writing courses attract students from all disciplines. The writer-in-residence programme further enhances the Department's strength in teaching and research on modern literary studies. Moreover, the Centre for Humanities Research (CHR) joins forces with the Department to link up staff and students from various fields in researching on Hong Kong literature, film and cultural studies from cross-disciplinary perspectives. The Journal of Modern Literature in Chinese published by CHR is an established bilingual academic journal with sound reputation. Funded by the Hong Kong Jockey Club, a Distinguished Visiting Professorship of Modern Chinese Literature has been established for 5 years from 2007. World-renowned scholars in the area will be invited to teach and conduct research at Lingnan for a term under the project.

4. Conflict Management in Chinese Societies

Our research has integrated Western theory and Chinese values to identify major conditions that affect the dynamics and outcomes of conflict management in Chinese organisations. Field studies document that communicating the intent to manage conflict for mutual benefit promotes both organisational goals and individual development. Findings challenge common assumptions that Chinese people consider conflict anathema by showing how they have used conflict to explore opposing views and integrate them. Chinese values in social face, persuasion, and nonverbal communication need not imply conflict avoidance. This research is based in Lingnan's Management Department, but conflict management is relevant to all business studies. Studies have examined, for example, how conflict management contributes to relational marketing, making high quality decisions, and developing quality budgets by accountants and managers. Open-mindedness by confronting and incorporating opposing views through the Socratic and other methods has long been thought critical for a broad-based, liberal arts education. Employees and students in conflict have been found to express their ideas convincingly and logically, but they are also asked to understand alternative opinions. Our research has documented that the conditions and dynamics which promote open-minded discussion in the classroom are similar to those in organisational settings. Research has begun to study conflict management at the macro-level, including that in the supply chain and between competitors as they develop their industry. Research will also examine how government administrators and business managers collaborate to promote economic and social goals.

5. Taxation

Taxation is of great significance to individuals, corporations, governments and society as a whole. It is important to study how taxation regulations and policies are changing in reaction to changing business, economic and political environments. It is also important to assess the incentives and disincentives for compliance with tax laws. The Accountancy Department has a team of staff members with first-class academic tax research experience and professional involvement in taxation. It has built up a significant strength in this area of research and aims at contributing to the design, implementation, analysis and evaluation of relevant taxation policies adopted in Hong Kong, the Chinese Mainland and the region. Lingnan's BBA (Hons) Programme is a broad-based programme that provides foundation knowledge and skills in areas important for a graduate to function in today's knowledge-based economy and ever-changing society. In particular, taxation is an important functional area in accounting education, and is a broad-based subject important for all walks of life in society. With the majority of its accounting teaching staff actively involved in taxation research, the Department can provide students with the latest theoretical and empirical knowledge in the field of taxation, and provide insights for students on taxation issues particularly in Hong Kong and the Asian-Pacific region.

6. Public Policy and Governance

Improving public policy-making and enhancing public governance are frequently-articulated priorities of the Hong Kong SAR Government. Lingnan's academic staff in social sciences see lending their research expertise to community-relevant projects as their mission, along with training students in policy analysis. The three sister departments, namely the Economics Department, the Sociology & Social Policy Department, and the Political Science Department, have an international faculty, with research and teaching interests ranging across Hong Kong, China, the Asian Pacific region and broader global issues, which enable them to contribute meaningfully to the local and international debates on public policy and good governance. Lingnan has now accumulated a strong reputation and expertise in public policy and governance analysis, covering the theory of public policy analysis, environmental politics, competition policy, happiness and health, housing, trade and investment, labour market and population policy, monetary policy and banking, political reform, and regional and international organisations, which puts its researchers in demand from local and international governmental and non-governmental organisations.

7. Social Gerontology

Social gerontology has been taught and a subject of research at Lingnan for over ten years. It is based around an active interdisciplinary research centre, the Asia-Pacific Institute of Ageing Studies (APIAS), currently celebrating its 10th anniversary. Social gerontology has special relevance for Hong Kong and the Asia-Pacific, where demographic ageing and the challenges of family change, have enormous social, economic and political ramifications. Lingnan is believed to be the first university in Asia to include gerontology in its social sciences curriculum and, at the postgraduate level, social gerontology is a focus area allocated additional research postgraduate places. Lingnan's gerontology has a strategically and synergistic relationship with APIAS which has enabled networking in research collaboration, service learning projects and regular seminars and conferences. Its research has been pioneering in social care programme evaluation, measurement of public service performance, the needs of older persons and action and service learning (often involving older persons themselves). APIAS is at the centre of local and international research networks and was lead centre for the Asian Ageing Research Network. Regional linkages include China, Korea Australia, Singapore, Thailand, many other countries of the Asia-Pacific and extend to Europe and North America. Over the past 5 years or so, APIAS has raised almost $10 million for many research and action projects.

Developing Research Areas

Two additional research foci have been identified to be further developed, reflecting staff expertise and research directions.

8. Hong Kong Studies Through History

A vital History programme is essential to the liberal arts mission of Lingnan. The newest partner among peer institutions locally, the History Department at Lingnan has evinced an unparalleled potential for making a distinctive mark. Across the HKSAR, graduate programmes address assorted aspects of Hong Kong's arts, culture, and economy. However, programmes in History at the graduate level have invested little in Hong Kong history, relative to China and Europe. The Department seeks to provide training for graduate students grounded in the discipline of history, while enabling students to draw upon the unique combination of resources beyond the discipline that relate to Hong Kong. Existing faculty resources allow for the training of graduate students in Hong Kong local history and empire studies for the 19th and 20th centuries.

9. Financial Markets and Economic Performance

The Financial Sector's importance to Hong Kong cannot be overstated. While a global player in certain areas, in some sub-sectors other regional centres are ahead and moving further ahead. Yet, finance in East Asia may undergo greater geographical consolidation in future, and the role and prospects of centres such as Singapore and increasingly Shanghai are anything but clear in relation to Hong Kong. It is therefore important to understand how financial markets function in the region and Hong Kong's strengths and weaknesses. Nevertheless, despite some past accounts of its emergence as a financial hub, surprisingly little has been done on Hong Kong as a present-day financial centre. Lingnan's Economics staff have wide-ranging expertise in research and in the markets. This spans work on financial markets, policy analysis, currency arrangements and exchange rates, international finance, financial institutions and regulation, corporate finance, and behaviour finance, as well as hands-on policy involvement in capital market development and crisis resolution in emerging markets. The Economics Department has been closely associated with the HKMA's Hong Kong Institute for Monetary Research over the last nine years, working with them (and under several CERG-funded projects) on the exchange rate systems and stock markets of Hong Kong and the Mainland—and now co-organising with them (plus San Francisco Federal Reserve and UC Santa Cruz) an important conference on Global Liquidity and the East Asian Economies for June 2008. Our range of studies on financial issues currently underway include several in cooperation with leading experts elsewhere in Hong Kong, the Mainland and beyond, seeking to understand in depth how financial markets function in the region; Hong Kong's strengths and needs as a financial centre compared to other centres in the area and globally; the internal and external factors for those strengths and needs; Mainland entities' demand for financial services and behaviour in the choice of location; Hong Kong's potential for strategic complementarity or competition with China's capital markets; and, from all that, what corrective or supportive measures may be appropriate.

Note: Prof. Jesús Seade has just been awarded RGC funding of HK$1.4m on a related research project entitled “Hong Kong as an International Financial Centre for China and for the World” under the Public Policy Research Scheme.

Explanatory Notes for Report 3

Type of Output:

- A Academic research: refereed
- B Academic research: not refereed
- C Contract research
- D Other outputs

Research Output Category:

1 Scholarly books, monographs and chapters

- 11 Research book or monograph (author) – Authored work generally arising from academic research project(s) although contract research can produce such results if findings are in the public domain
- 12 Chapter in an edited book (author) – A paper, essay, or other material authored specifically for inclusion in an edited book; does not include an opening or summary chapter prepared by an editor for inclusion in a work counted in (14)
- 13 Textbook (author) – A full-length authored work used for instructional purposes; include revisions if they involve "substantial" (say 20%) new material
- 14 Edited book (editor) – an edited book of essays, research papers or the equivalent

2 Journal publications

- 21 Publication in refereed journal – A paper in a refereed journal devoted to reporting the results of basic or applied research
- 22 Publication in policy or professional journal – A paper in a refereed or unrefereed journal publishing policy or educational material for a professional audience

3 Conference papers

- 31 Invited conference paper – A paper invited for presentation at an academic or professional meeting and published (in full or in part) in conference proceedings
- 32 Refereed conference paper – A paper accepted for presentation at an academic or professional meeting on the basis of a formal peer review process external to the institution and published (in full or in part) in conference proceedings
- 33 Other conference paper – Any other paper presented at an academic or professional conference

4 Creative and literary works, consulting reports and case studies

- 41 Authored play, poem, novel, story – Fictional or similar works, published in a form appropriate to the type of work
- 42 Painting, sculpture, drawing, photograph – Creation of artefacts capable of being reviewed for merit, generally but not exclusively of an artistic nature [exclude those covered in (44) below]
- 43 Film, video – Creation of films, videos, multimedia, and similar productions for research, educational, cultural or entertainment purposes [exclude those covered in (44) below]
- 44 Performance and participation in exhibits – Drama, musical and similar performances; participation as an exhibitor of paintings, sculptures or other artefacts: the exhibit may be sponsored by the institution or externally; it should attract significant public or professional attention
- 45 Translation of other's work – Translation of an item of type (11) through (22) and (41) above, written by others: translation of one's own work is considered part of the authoring process and should not be included

- 46 Engineering, architectural, graphic designs – An engineering, architectural, graphic, landscape, or interior design (or the equivalent), whether prepared for a client or in the public domain
- 47 Computer software or system – Development of a shareable computer software program, computer language, expert system, computer-aided instruction package or the equivalent
- 48 Consulting or contract research report – Report on work performed under an institutional consulting or research contract: reports counted here generally will be prepared for the client, and they may be proprietary if institutional rules permit
- 49 Written teaching case study or extensive note – Material prepared for teaching purposes with applicability beyond one's own course needs; short notes and descriptions prepared for immediate class use should not be included

5 Patents, agreements, assignments and companies

- 51 Patents granted – patents (on work done at the reporting institution) granted by patent office(s) to the reporting institution within the specified reporting period; not patents filed, not patents held in previous years, and not patents obtained/held on work done elsewhere
- 52 Licensing agreements – the licensing of technology/invention from the reporting institution within the specified reporting period
- 53 Assignments of intellectual property rights – the assignment based on technology/invention from the reporting institution within the specified reporting period
- 54 Companies – registered companies in which the institution holds an equity by virtue of technology transfer, where the acquisition of such equity (including any increase in equity) by technology transfer occurred during the specified reporting period

6 All other outputs

- 61 Journal editor – Editor, associate editor, or the equivalent of a journal or similar ongoing publication venture ('editorial membership' should be excluded)
- 62 Review of books or of software – Published or widely-disseminated reviews of books, other publications, software or similar items: dissemination must extend beyond the institution and its research sponsors [reviews for institutional clients should be counted under (49)]
- 63 Postgraduate research theses – MPhil or PhD theses of research students who defended successfully within the specified reporting period
- 64 Other outputs – Any substantive output of original research not listed above

Notes

1. Publications are listed by cost centres. For each publication, the name(s) of the author(s) belonging to the corresponding cost centre (during the reporting period) is/are underlined. In the case of students, a "#" is placed against their names.
2. The fraction appearing in the "Weighting" column of those co-authored items denotes the weighting of the authors concerned, calculated on a pro-rata basis. For example, a paper with four authors will count as 0.25 for each author, and if three of the four authors are staff members in the same cost centre, the paper will count as 3x0.25=0.75 in the cost-centre total.
