Report 1: Overview

■ Institutional Policy on Research

As a student-centred liberal arts institution, Lingnan is fully and equally committed to quality teaching and excellence in research: two pillars of our work which our small size allows us to make strongly complementary and mutually reinforcing. Some liberal arts colleges in the US focus only on teaching while others, including some of the strongest, stress the complementary nature of teaching and research, which supplement and inform each other and jointly enhance the intellectual environment and analytical breadth provided to students. This is a philosophy we very much espouse, pursuing a policy of close staff-student relationship and substantially enhancing our research strength across the range of areas the University covers in the Arts, Business and Social Sciences.

The University's research policy is designed to provide staff and students with a supportive and stimulating environment for research while optimising the use of research funds through the support of focused development and collaboration where appropriate.

■ Focused Development

Lingnan's small size can mean that its researchers, if pursuing fully individual research agendas, can have a dearth of collaborators with whom to interact in their field of interest – and can also have less visibility than their individual research standing may otherwise merit. For these reasons, and while recognising and supporting research as an individual endeavour (and in collaboration with peers in other institutions), Lingnan encourages staff to develop common focused areas of strength, both to enrich the environment for collaborators in a field and to increase impact. This policy is never pursued by requiring staff to work on particular areas, but through the creation of research centres, programmes or simply clusters of work that may receive research and other resources beyond the project level which is the norm for individual work; through funding for targeted research-relevant conferences; and through systematic brain-storming to identify and support synergies and possible niches for our work.

A number of focus areas of research strength have thus developed and continue to emerge at Lingnan, combining quality and calibre in the work of individual participants with a commonality of purpose that allows teams to reach scale and excel in niches on a par with the larger sister universities in Hong Kong. In our previous (2009-12) Academic Development Proposals, nine such focus areas were designated: Aesthetics and the Arts; Cultural Research and Development; Hong Kong Studies Through History; Modern Literature in Chinese; Conflict Management in Chinese Societies; Taxation; Financial Markets and Economic Performance; Public Policy and Governance; and Social Gerontology. These have been carefully reconsidered to reflect our staff's evolving research agendas or to improve and sharpen definitions and tags attached to particular areas of strength at Lingnan.

We thus define the following focus areas, where the work and standing of several of our staff converge to create a rich research environment at Lingnan, often cutting across several departments: (i) Modern Literature in Chinese; (ii) International Financial Markets and Economic Performance; (iii) Taxation in China; and (iv) Conflict Management in Chinese Business, which remain essentially unchanged from our previous list; (v) Age and Work-Life Balance and (vi) Cinema Studies, which draw from and modify our earlier Social Gerontology and Aesthetics and the Arts, the former in response to the sharp expansion in our hiring and interests in Social Psychology, and the latter to bring together our range of work and expertise in film studies in as many as six of the seven departments in our Arts Faculty; and (vii) Cultural Policy and Heritage, which brings together and re-focuses aspects of our earlier listed areas on Cultural Research and Development and Hong Kong Studies Through History. The final focus area in our earlier list, on Public Policy and Governance, remains a field of research interest among staff but is too broad to truly generate significant cross-breeding among contributors to various areas within it; hence it has been taken off this list.

■ Quality Enhancement

To ensure that faculty members are given adequate opportunities to engage in research and development activities as well as an uninterrupted period of writing, a study leave scheme that awards a maximum time-off period of 6-12 months has been put in place. This allows academic staff, through re-arrangement of teaching schedule and utilisation of the summer vacation, to be released from teaching and administrative duties to concentrate on research, study, and writing full time. Seven academic members from six departments were released from teaching in 2010/11, each for one term. In addition, the University has put aside HK$2 to $3 million each year in 2010/11 and 2011/12 to support outstanding research plans via research leaves on a competitive basis. Visiting faculty can be hired to cover teaching for faculty who are awarded research leaves. The funding could potentially support an average of one research leave place for each department during 2010 to 2012. Four leave plans for 2010/11 from four departments were approved.

In support of research work undertaken by young faculty, an Initial Research Activities Fund for Newly Recruited Assistant Professors has been set up to provide ancillary funding for research-related activities without requiring the submission of a formal research proposal.

■ Collaborative Endeavour

While at present inter-institutional collaboration exists mainly at the individual level, a system has been set up by faculty-based research institutes/centres to channel resources into special areas of research and to develop links with local, regional and overseas institutions for the purpose of academic exchange, conferences and other collaborative activities. For instance, Hong Kong Institute of Business Studies organised the “2010 Academy of International Business (AIB) Southeast Asia Regional Conference” on “Trends in International Business: Change and Competition Issues”. Over 90 participants from 22 countries and cities attended the conference in Vietnam, with 88 papers presented in 24 sessions. Together with the Hong Kong Polytechnic University, the Department of Economics organized The Second Asia Competition Policy Workshop, which attracted more than 70 local and overseas participants. Among the renowned speakers were Professors Richard Gilbert and Daniel Rubinfeld, Former Chief Economists of the United States Department of Justice, Professor Allan Fels, Former Chairman of the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission, and Professor Kotaro Suzumura, Former Director of the Competition Policy Research Center, Fair Trade Commission of Japan. The Department of Translation at Lingnan University and the Department of Foreign Languages at Tsinghua University jointly organised The Fourth Lingnan-Tsinghua Translation Symposium. Within the broad framework of “Translation and Interpretation Research: Global and Local Contexts”, the symposium provided a forum for the discussion of issues related to translation and interpretation research in a globalised context, with a special focus on the synergetic relationship between work currently undertaken in China and theoretical trends developed elsewhere in the world.

In addition, the University has set aside funds to finance academic-exchange activities between Lingnan and higher learning institutions in China and the less developed economies of Asia. In 2010/11, six incoming and two outgoing visits were supported.

■ Organization of Research Funding

The formulation of policies for the promotion, funding and administration of research at the University is entrusted to the Research and Postgraduate Studies Committee (RPSC), a Senate committee that decides internal funding allocations and monitors progress of research projects funded by various grants. Initial assessment of research grant applications is undertaken by three faculty-level research panels, which make recommendations to the RPSC. Smaller grants are decided by the faculty research panels. The Office of Research and Staff Development provides administrative assistance to the RPSC and the panels in the management of allocated grants, ensuring that all funding and budgetary procedures are properly followed.

A rigorous internal peer review process is adopted for all internal research grant applications. Each application is evaluated on the basis of academic merit, feasibility within the indicated time frame, budgetary appropriateness, and the track record of the investigator(s).

■ Usage of Direct Allocation Grant

The Research Grants Council (RGC) Direct Allocation (DA) is an excellent scheme for small-to-medium-scale research projects, especially those undertaken at a university like Lingnan with focus on the humanities, social sciences and business studies. Indeed, our institutional support for research relies heavily on RGC's DA. Our efficient use of it, awarded only to highly competitive projects, is clearly evident in the number of quality outputs by our colleagues, as confirmed in the 2006 RAE results.

In 2010/11, RPSC allocated a total of HK$2.74 million to support 44 research projects and HK$1.45 million to fund 90 academic paper presentations at international conferences and other scholarly activities, through which staff were able to share the results of their research with local or overseas specialists. In addition, the RPSC allocated HK$0.2 million to sponsor RPg students to participate at 23 international conferences. The titles and grants for those projects funded from the University's Block Grant and the RGC's Direct Allocation Grant are set out in Reports 2A and 2B respectively. Projects supported from private sources are listed in Report 2C.

■ Research Highlights

Research Strength

Lingnan achieved impressive results in the 2006 Research Assessment Exercise (RAE). The University's overall research performance index doubled to 76.35% (from 38.85% in 1999 RAE), putting Lingnan in the fourth place among all UGC-funded institutions, just after the three 'research-intensive' universities. Of the nine cost centres for which Lingnan was assessed, the research indexes of seven, namely Accountancy, Business Studies, Economics, other Social Sciences (Politics & Sociology), Chinese, English, and Translation, surpassed their corresponding sector-wide averages. Lingnan ranked second in the Business Studies and Economics Panel, with an index of 84.14%.

According to "Accounting Program Research Rankings by Topical Area and Methodology" published in the Issues in Accounting Education (Vol. 25, 2010) of the American Accounting Association, our Accountancy Department ranked 14th in taxation research among universities worldwide and is the leader in tax research in Hong Kong. This is an overall ranking of tax research on all countries using analytical, empirical and experimental research methods. As reported in the January 2005 issue of Hong Kong Economic Journal Monthly, our Department of Economics came in third in a survey of the academic performance of the economics departments of seven Hong Kong universities in an evaluation based on publications in international economics journals. The number of competitive grants per full-time academic staff member and their Research Index in the 2006 RAE was 94.13%, well above the top score in the corresponding Panel although no comparative figures were made available at the departmental level. No comparable recent rankings are available in other subject areas represented at Lingnan, in particular the Arts, but similar recognition can be gleaned from our having been the first Asian host ever of the leading world conference in cultural studies; our co-hosting with Tsinghua University since 2001 the leading biennial translation symposium in China; or indeed the flow of books our scholars publish with the top houses in areas such as English, History, Philosophy, Sociology and Visual Studies.

The above-referred surveys and indicators speak of a community of active and cutting-edge scholars who have continuously raised the standing of our university.

Teaching Supported by Research

We are keen to encourage not just research-led but also research-based teaching. We do not just follow “traditional wisdom” to encourage faculty to incorporate ideas and examples drawn from their own or others’ research into the lecture room. Rising above a transmission-oriented pedagogy where teachers tell and students follow, we encourage an inquiry-based mode of teaching and learning in which students acquire concepts and principles of the discipline through active participation in the teaching and learning process. We inspire students to learn for themselves through critical reasoning, creative thinking, action research, and self-and-peer reflection.

This strong synergy between research and teaching runs across all academic departments.

- In the Arts departments, specific faculty research projects support many courses which distinguish our undergraduate programmes: e.g., Hong Kong Literature and Film, shi/ci classical poetry (in Chinese); Art and Well Being, Environmental Aesthetics (in Visual Studies); Media History, British Imperial History, Hong Kong Local Histories (in History); Cinema Studies, Education and Cultural Studies (in Cultural Studies); Stylistics, and Life-writing (in English); etc. Research-based teaching is also practised in such courses as Philosophy and Literature, Metaphysics (Philosophy); Cultural Policy and Institution, Critical Writing Workshop (in Cultural Studies); Translation Theory, Translation Criticism (in Translation); and The Visual Cultures of Hong Kong (in Visual Studies).

- Business faculty members generally focus on empirical and practical research within their relevant disciplines, which is strongly related to their undergraduate teaching, such that academics who specialise in certain areas teach relevant courses. For example, the Department of Computing and Decision Sciences emphasises empirical research in the operations management area and collect data from companies on the Chinese Mainland. Since the department runs the Operations Management course for BBA (Hons) students, teaching staff of the course incorporate research details into their teaching materials, and accompany students on study tours to Chinese Mainland factories.
- The research focuses of SocSc have impacted the development of its bachelor programme and the types of courses offered. A number of courses in Social Gerontology, Family and Gender, Work and Occupation, Health, Illness and Behaviours, Social Welfare and Social Problems, Ageing and others are very much related to the research focus on Age and Work-Life Balance. Further courses on Financial Economics, Globalisation and Economic Integration, etc, are strengths in the research focus area on Financial Markets and Economic Performance. These courses bring research into the classroom, exposing students to research processes and current debates and topics.

Further, in the development of the core curriculum courses, many of our faculty has developed new courses around their research interests, such as consumer behaviour, bilingual studies in humour, ecology and environmental issues, etc.

Research/Teaching Nexus

Lingnan is characterised by close staff-student relationships. All professors irrespective of rank are required to teach undergraduate courses in addition to doing research. We do not hire research professors without teaching duties, but all our teaching faculty members have active research and publishing agendas. As such, and given that we have a high percentage of research active staff (76.35% in 2006 and probably over 90% by now), we can say with confidence that most of our academic staff are active researchers as well as enthusiastic teachers.

Integration of Research Postgraduate (RPg) Students into Staff Research Teams

RPg students in the humanities, social sciences and business disciplines are usually not members of research teams supervised by individual research leaders and funded by corresponding project grants, even though exceptions are found in a few departments. Nonetheless, Lingnan has developed a good pool of RPg students who contribute significantly to the research culture through their own scholarship, participation in departmental inter-disciplinary seminars, and teaching tutorials in undergraduate courses. Working closely with supervisors, they publish in top-tier journals, become junior associates of research centres, assist in staff research and co-author journal articles.

Research/Development Partnerships with Outside Bodies

Academic research in the humanities, social sciences and business very often addresses topics where there is a direct social need. We do have a sizable pool of experienced researchers who combine scholarly work with applied, policy-oriented research in areas such as finance, fiscal and monetary, cultural policy, creative industries, health and ageing, population, institutions and governance, etc. In keeping with its motto of “Education for Service”, the University has always been keen to rendering services and making contributions to the Hong Kong Society and beyond. We have established close relationships with government bodies, corporations and NGOs, which enable knowledge transfer between the University and the society.

■ Concluding Remarks

Lingnan has established itself as a student-centred liberal arts institution which excels in both teaching and research. In embracing the vast opportunities and challenges that lie ahead, the University will build on this niche by reinforcing the distinctive strengths of our liberal arts ethos and continuing our pursuit of the highest standards of scholarship. As confirmed by the 2010 Quality Audit Report of the Quality Assurance Council, Lingnan has become a shining paradigm of quality education at a time of pivotal change in local higher education, offering a distinctive liberal arts model poised for leadership in the Asia-Pacific region.

The University is committed to providing good quality undergraduate education. It sees “offering high standard postgraduate programmes (both research and postgraduate)” as part of its mission, in keeping with its view that advancement in scholarship through research and studies at RPg level will contribute to the enrichment of undergraduate teaching. RPg students have received great attention, and every effort has been made to render them adequate support for their intellectual development. The QAC Audit Panel observed that “the MPhil and PhD programmes have been successfully introduced with appropriate support across the University and departments”. The Panel also judged that the programmes are “well-implemented with appropriate monitoring of progress and standards. The quality assurance processes are strong and the close relationships which characterise LU are beneficial to the students”.

As mentioned in earlier section, Lingnan has outstanding staff members who are well-known scholars in their respective fields. With an establishment of 130+ academic staff members at Assistant Professor rank or above but only a small number (44) of funded research postgraduate student places, our staff expertise is seriously under-utilised. Consequently, many of our well-qualified staff members have been deprived of the opportunity to supervise research postgraduates. On the other hand, many students who wished to learn from these experienced scholars were turned away in the past. This means an under-utilisation of staff expertise, as well as disappointment to applicants who are attracted by the specialism of our reputable staff.

We truly believe that the University has good reasons for a significant increase in its research student number. Many of our staff members are active researchers who are eager to nurture students in their fields of expertise. With expansion in our research postgraduate student number to a level where a critical mass can be formed, the University will be able to make further contributions in both teaching and research.

Explanatory Notes for Report 3

Type of Output:

- A Academic research: refereed
- B Academic research: not refereed
- C Contract research
- D Other outputs

Research Output Category:

1 Scholarly books, monographs and chapters

- 11 Research book or monograph (author) – Authored work generally arising from academic research project(s) although contract research can produce such results if findings are in the public domain
- 12 Chapter in an edited book (author) – A paper, essay, or other material authored specifically for inclusion in an edited book; does not include an opening or summary chapter prepared by an editor for inclusion in a work counted in (14)
- 13 Textbook (author) – A full-length authored work used for instructional purposes; include revisions if they involve "substantial" (say 20%) new material
- 14 Edited book (editor) – an edited book of essays, research papers or the equivalent

2 Journal publications

- 21 Publication in refereed journal – A paper in a refereed journal devoted to reporting the results of basic or applied research
- 22 Publication in policy or professional journal – A paper in a refereed or unrefereed journal publishing policy or educational material for a professional audience

3 Conference papers

- 31 Invited conference paper – A paper invited for presentation at an academic or professional meeting and published (in full or in part) in conference proceedings
- 32 Refereed conference paper – A paper accepted for presentation at an academic or professional meeting on the basis of a formal peer review process external to the institution and published (in full or in part) in conference proceedings
- 33 Other conference paper – Any other paper presented at an academic or professional conference

4 Creative and literary works, consulting reports and case studies

- 41 Authored play, poem, novel, story – Fictional or similar works, published in a form appropriate to the type of work
- 42 Painting, sculpture, drawing, photograph – Creation of artefacts capable of being reviewed for merit, generally but not exclusively of an artistic nature [exclude those covered in (44) below]
- 43 Film, video – Creation of films, videos, multimedia, and similar productions for research, educational, cultural or entertainment purposes [exclude those covered in (44) below]
- 44 Performance and participation in exhibits – Drama, musical and similar performances; participation as an exhibitor of paintings, sculptures or other artefacts: the exhibit may be sponsored by the institution or externally; it should attract significant public or professional attention
- 45 Translation of other's work – Translation of an item of type (11) through (22) and (41) above, written by others: translation of one's own work is considered part of the authoring process and should not be included

- 46 Engineering, architectural, graphic designs – An engineering, architectural, graphic, landscape, or interior design (or the equivalent), whether prepared for a client or in the public domain
- 47 Computer software or system – Development of a shareable computer software program, computer language, expert system, computer-aided instruction package or the equivalent
- 48 Consulting or contract research report – Report on work performed under an institutional consulting or research contract: reports counted here generally will be prepared for the client, and they may be proprietary if institutional rules permit
- 49 Written teaching case study or extensive note – Material prepared for teaching purposes with applicability beyond one's own course needs; short notes and descriptions prepared for immediate class use should not be included

5 Patents, agreements, assignments and companies

- 51 Patents granted – patents (on work done at the reporting institution) granted by patent office(s) to the reporting institution within the specified reporting period; not patents filed, not patents held in previous years, and not patents obtained/held on work done elsewhere
- 52 Licensing agreements – the licensing of technology/invention from the reporting institution within the specified reporting period
- 53 Assignments of intellectual property rights – the assignment based on technology/invention from the reporting institution within the specified reporting period
- 54 Companies – registered companies in which the institution holds an equity by virtue of technology transfer, where the acquisition of such equity (including any increase in equity) by technology transfer occurred during the specified reporting period

6 All other outputs

- 61 Journal editor – Editor, associate editor, or the equivalent of a journal or similar on-going publication venture ('editorial membership' should be excluded)
- 62 Review of books or of software – Published or widely-disseminated reviews of books, other publications, software or similar items: dissemination must extend beyond the institution and its research sponsors [reviews for institutional clients should be counted under (49)]
- 63 Postgraduate research theses – MPhil or PhD theses of research students who defended successfully within the specified reporting period
- 64 Other outputs – Any substantive output of original research not listed above

Notes

1. Publications are listed by cost centres. For each publication, the name(s) of the author(s) belonging to the corresponding cost centre (during the reporting period) is/are underlined. In the case of students, a "#" is placed against their names.
2. The fraction appearing in the "Weighting" column of those co-authored items denotes the weighting of the authors concerned, calculated on a pro-rata basis. For example, a paper with four authors will count as 0.25 for each author, and if three of the four authors are staff members in the same cost centre, the paper will count as  $3 \times 0.25 = 0.75$  in the cost-centre total.
