General Description of Sanata Dharma’s Community Service Learning Program

- In the history of tertiary education in Indonesia, service learning is known as Rural Development Internships (or popularly known as “KKN” = Kuliah Kerja Nyata)

- Since 1990, Sanata Dharma University has included KKN in its curriculum. It is a compulsory program

- The design of service learning program has developed into various forms.

• Gunungkidul is one of five regencies in Yogyakarta Special Region
• The regency mainly consists of thin layer of infertile soil.
• The number of poor families in the district is the highest among the other districts in the region.
Background Information

• Despite the unfortunate condition, Gunungkidul has many distinctive tourism attractions.
• The regency has beautiful white-sand beaches along its southern parts.
• Previously, the local tourism office relies on the beaches as the main tourism attraction.
For the last three years, the tourism office has promoted some new ‘non beach’ destinations.
