Pre-project survey

Prior experience in voluntary service

Prior Experience
(Guiyang Project)

■ Yes ■ No

Prior Experience
(University Overall)

■ Yes ■ No

More students are encouraged to participate in voluntary services during their primary and secondary school study. These students have experiences to serve the needy in forms of social gathering activities, tour guiding & language tutorial...

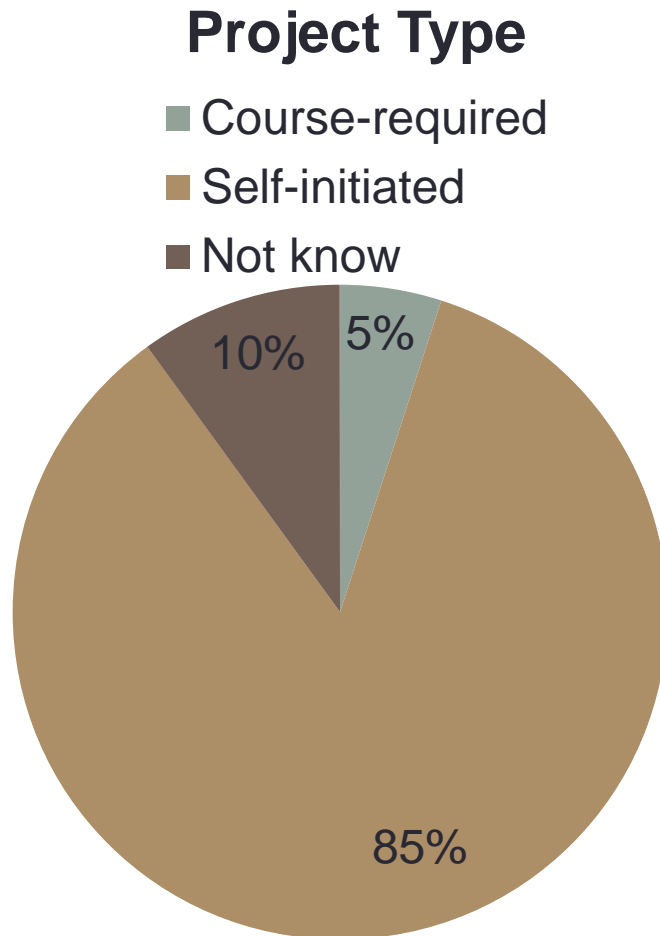

Pre-project survey

duration of getting involved in Voluntary services

Pre-project survey

we also got surprising data for Project Type?

- Our application form mentioned the project nature
 - Course-requested
- Our expectation:
 - need to apply their University learning outcome
- would easily overlook
 - the dimension of professional knowledge applications,
 - sustainable impacts to beneficiary and learning achievements.

Pre-project survey

Preference of the need of advisor Guiyang project?

Preference of the need of advisor?

- With project advisor
- Without any project advisor
- Not sure

- Advisor identity crisis!
- Challenges to the assigned advisors
- Responsibilities of Project outside Hong Kong
- Awareness
 - Pre-university voluntary service experiences may be the barriers for their learning process in service learning projects
 - They have tendency
 - to omit the learning dimension in service learning and
 - to overly focus on service delivery

From Figures to Reflection

Some extracts of student reflections from project with transition approach

“I thought that the most essential factor for the success was our sincerity in working together. We were willing to contribute and devote to the team.” Kris, 2009

“It was a good opportunity for me to help other people in need with what I learnt in school... I treasured the opportunity to express my feeling and ideas with other people even it was my weakness indeed!” Timothy Chan 2010

“I learnt how to admire the advantage of others after this experience and I now realized more about the uniqueness of a person.” Theo Law, 2011

“I was able to apply the communication skills... communication was very important in order to get along well with each other.” Janice Chow, 2012
